✓ Addition to "OLD FOLKS AT HOME" ✓ Motion Picture Film.

This additional section of film shows pictures of Mrs. B. L. Hendrix, (102 years old), of Naples, Texas. This section is about 195 feet long, and attached hereto are six enlarged prints taken from different parts of the negative, as follows:

- No. 1- Mrs. Hendrix standing on left end of porch, with newspaper in left hand.
- No. 2- Mrs. Hendrix standing on porch in front of screen door, with newspaper held in both hands.
- No. 3- Mrs. Hendrix in side yard, with cane in right hand.
- No. 4- Profile of Mrs. Hendrix seated in rocking chair, holding paper with both hands and reading without aid of glasses.
- No. 5- Front view of Mrs. Hendrix seated in rocking chair, holding walking cane which is resting across arms of the chair.
- No. 6 Side view of No.5.

The original motion picture film, "Old Folks at Home," was copyrighted by the St. Elmo Sales Co., January 9, 1921, and is a film which depicts the home life of certain centenarians of the South. It is the desire of the St. Elmo Sales Co. now to add another section to this film, showing pictures of Mrs. B. L. Hendrix (102 years old) at her home in Naples, Texas, and it is this section of film for which application is being made for copyright.
